Mosquito-borne Disease Risk

Responsible agency:
Department of Health

Definition of Interest:

Mosquitoes can be a serious nuisance in certain regions of Western Australia and can spread disease-causing viruses such as Ross River, Barmah Forest, Kunjin and Murray Valley encephalitis viruses.

Affect of Interest:

The selected area is impacted by the risk of mosquito-borne diseases.

Details are as follows:

Mosquito-borne Disease Risk:

Risk Level - Low or unknown risk

Frequent high risk

The selected area is in a region that frequently experiences problems with nuisance and disease carrying mosquitoes.

Occasional very high risk

The selected area is in a region that experiences severe problems with nuisance and disease carrying mosquitoes in some years, depending on environmental conditions.

Frequent high and occasional very high risk

The selected area is in a region that frequently experiences problems with nuisance and disease carrying mosquitoes, and severe issues are also experienced in some years depending on environmental conditions.

Low or unknown risk

This location has not experienced high rates of mosquito-borne disease in the past. However, the sporadic nature of mosquito-borne disease outbreaks means that this not necessarily a precise indicator of future risk. Furthermore, regions with low or no resident human population may also be classified as low risk even though there may be an undocumented high risk in the area. Finally, significant mosquito nuisance issues may still be experienced, despite a low health risk.

Residents are advised to avoid exposure to mosquitoes and minimise mosquito breeding around the home as appropriate, particularly following extreme weather events such as heavy rainfall, high tides (in coastal areas) or localised flooding that may create abnormally large areas of mosquito breeding habitat.

For information on mosquito control in your local area or to report a mosquito problem please contact your Local Government Environmental Health Officer.

For more information about mosquito management, contact the Environmental Health Directorate on (08) 9388 4999 or email medical.entomology@health.wa.gov.au or see http://ww2.health.wa.gov.au/Articles/J_M/Mosquito-management.

The building approvals process in Western Australia is legislated under The Building Act 2011 from the design stage right through to occupation of a building.

Affect of Interest:

Residual Current Device

Responsible agency:

Department of Energy,
Mines, Industry
Regulation and Safety

Definition of Interest:

Residual Current Devices (RCDs) monitor the flow of electricity from the main switchboard and prevent electrocution by cutting the electricity supply if an imbalance in the current is detected. At least two RCDs must be fitted before land title is transferred.

Affect of Interest:

All home sellers and landlords must ensure that RCDs are installed in accordance with the Electricity Regulations to protect all power points and lighting circuits. RCDs cut the electricity supply instantly if a person touches a live part and receives a shock. By installing two or more RCDs, the property's circuits can be divided evenly between them, ensuring some light and power remains if one RCD operates. Multiple RCDs also avoid nuisance operation caused by appliances with low-level leakage currents. All properties constructed after 2000 should already have two RCDs fitted. Two RCDs must be fitted to protect all power points and lighting circuits in all homes before the land title is transferred. If you are planning to sell your home and it does not already have two RCDs protecting all power point and lighting circuits, you will need to engage a licensed electrical contractor to install them to comply with the Electricity Regulations.

Landlords must ensure RCDs are installed in accordance with the Electricity Regulations. If RCDs are not fitted, tenants should contact the managing agent or landlord and request that RCDs be installed as required.

Smoke Alarm

Responsible agency:

Department of Energy,
Mines, Industry
Regulation and Safety

Definition of Interest:

The Building Code of Australia requires mains powered smoke alarms to be fitted in all newly constructed residential buildings and in new building work, such as alterations and extensions (where smoke alarms are required) in accordance with the building permit.

For existing dwellings, there are laws in Western Australia requiring owners to have mains-powered smoke alarms fitted to all residential properties that are subject to transfer of ownership, rent and hire, regardless of when they were built.

Affect of Interest:

The Building Regulations 2012 in Western Australia requires owners to have mains-powered smoke alarms fitted to all dwellings that are subject to transfer of ownership, rent and hire, regardless of when they were built.

The smoke alarms must:

- be installed in the dwelling in accordance with the Building Code of Australia applicable at the time of installation of the alarms;
- be not more than 10 years old and have not passed their expiry date;
- be in working order; and
- be permanently connected to the mains power supply.

Owners may be fined up to $5,000 for non-compliance.

Swimming Pool

Responsible agency:

Department of Energy,

Definition of Interest:

In Western Australia, private swimming and spa pools with water that is more than 300mm deep must have a compliant safety barrier.

Affect of Interest:
